

RADIOLOGIC TECHNOLOGISTS & TECHNICIANS

SOC 29-2034

Radiologic Technologists and Technicians are vital members of the healthcare team, using advanced imaging technology to help doctors diagnose and treat patients. They operate X-ray and other equipment, ensure scans are accurate and safe, and provide clear images that guide medical decisions. Working in hospitals, clinics, or diagnostic centers, they play a crucial role in patient care.

Starting Annual Salary
$53,277

2022-2032 Job Growth
+10.7%

Minimum Education Required
Associate Degree

Regional Training Programs

MCC - Radiologic Technology Associate Degree Program

Scan or click to explore this career's full regional profile:

bit.ly/hrtx-rad-techs

Scan to watch an overview video for this career:

Career Entry Options & Requirements

- A high school diploma or GED is required.
- Complete an accredited Radiologic Technology program.
- Pass the National American Registry of Radiologic Technologists exam (ARRT).
- Radiologic Technologists are required to apply for and obtain a license from the Texas Medical Board.